

A Treasure Chest!

Al recently sent the following email to those members of the board who have email addresses:

I apologize if this seems arrogant but I would like to share with you my collection of "reading figures" that are on display in the library's upstairs display case during the month of August. I have enjoyed collecting them from around the world and thought you might like to know they were there.

Al Dollerschell

John and I checked out the upstairs display case, and it's content is wonderful. We suggest you do the same next chance you get! See if you can find the figure that isn't reading at all!

Silent Auction

If you missed this event (and many of you did!), you missed a lot of fascinating material that had been put aside during the past year as being too pricy for the bookstore but not quite worth the bother of selling online. There were children's books, poetry, and lots of just plain fun stuff, all of it special.

Total take was over $1,100.00.

Rochester Reads

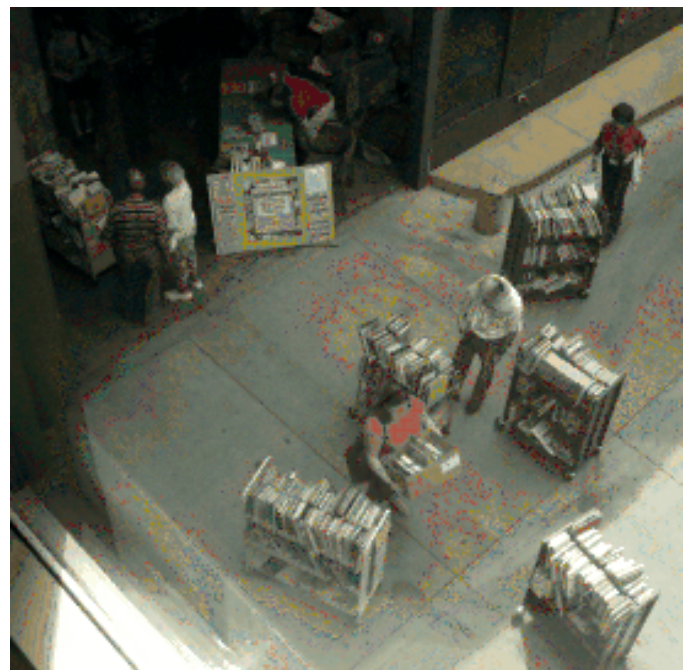

Thank you for participating in Rochester Reads voting. The winning title for 2007 will be announced in November, 2006.

Garage Sale was Success

On June 21 and 22 the bookmobile garage was an especially popular sight for Rochesterfest goers and book lovers. There was something for all ages and interests. Used books, videos, cassettes, records, sheet music, artwork and 3 beanbag chairs were sold over the two-day period. Over $3,400.00 was raised for the Friends by these donations. The set-up and two day sale involved forty hard working volunteers, donating over 200 hours, to once again make this event a success. We thank all those who contributed to this annual event by donating or purchasing items. We've already started sorting for the next book sale so keep those items coming in!
